AROUND THE HIVE

Once again we ask your indulgence, for economy reasons, in using the matchday magazine prepared for Swindon's visit on March 15th this match being called off due to torrential pre-match rain.

Now the good news, we will shortly be introducing a new match day magazine at the existing price of 35p. This is to give you an "appetiser" for next season and also as Chairman Martin Lange points out to let you know plans are in hand for improvements in various areas. The new magazine will have various features not previously used and we need your co-operation as we propose to have a Family Feature so you may be interviewed, if you agree, at the ground. Alternatively if you would like to appear please write to me at the ground giving your telephone number. We are looking for Mums, Dads and children or three generation supporters.

We will also have a competition page with a "Bees' Knees" competition when you will be asked to identify players knees. We would also be interested in quizzes or crosswords submitted by fans. Hopefully there will also be articles on old Bees' players and junior players.

We have not had room recently to refer to our casualty list. David Kemp is still on the side-lines with hospital investigation on his knee injury. Terry Rowe has been suffering from strained knee ligaments and Mark Hill suffering from a leg injury. Then Alan Whitehead had the misfortune to be carried off at Wimbledon. Fortunately it only turned out to be a twisted ankle.

This evening a warm welcome to Swindon Town F.C. Our visitors have had a difficult season and we hope to complete a "double" started at Swindon last November.

AROUND THE HIVE

Since Martin Lange took over as Chairman less than six short months ago he has virtually turned the Club upside down.

He will shortly be announcing what he describes as "a package of improvements" and further details in this connection can be expected to be released within the next three weeks and will be fully covered in the match day programme.

One of the first things he did when he took over was to announce that he wished to alter drastically the public image of the Club, and he has been particularly pleased in the last week to get two letters relating to the Exeter City game. The first, which we reproduce below comes from Mr. T. Drury of Sutton Wanderers Boys Football Club, and not only did Mr. Drury write to us, but he sent copies to most of the national newspapers. It was particularly pleasing therefore that the Sunday People, through Jim Robbins' column, used his letter and Mr. Robbins himself acknowledged that he was delighted to hear about the "nice side of football". May we take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Drury for being kind enough to express his appreciation of what he felt was quite exceptional treatment meted out to his nine year old lads when they came to the Exeter game.

Dear Mr. Lange,

May I take this opportunity of writing to express my gratitude and sincere appreciation for the way in which Brentford Football Club played host to the young lads of Sutton Wanderers on Saturday.

Brentford's remarkable gesture and their generosity to all of the young lads involved in this trip, certainly made my weekend, and theirs.

Having been involved in 'boys football' for some years now, I can assure you that nothing similar has taken place before now, and I know that for those lads, the whole event will not be forgotten very easily.

I was most impressed by the attitude and kindness shown by the Brentford players to the lads, and while most of the boys were tongue tied when meeting the players they spoke of nothing else on their way home (I think some of them have been converted from supporting Chelsea!).

The whole afternoon spent at the club was both memorable and enjoyable to all of us, and frankly I do not have the words to thank you and your club enough. Once again my most sincere thanks for the afternoon, for the gifts on behalf of the handicapped children, which I shall be delivering today, and would you please thank the players and staff, on behalf of myself and my club, for their kindness. Brentford F.C. you really are smashing!

*Yours sincerely,
Terry Drury.*

The second letter is rather more commercial, but is worthy of inclusion in this column, emanating as it does from Honeywells, the sponsors of the Exeter game. We also reproduce this and it is another aspect of the Club's affairs which has improved in the last six months.

Dear Martin,

I would like to pass on my sincere thanks for the attitude and attention directed toward my guests on Saturday. We had a most enjoyable afternoon, the arrangements and lunch were excellent and even the result went our way. I am confident that you will have guaranteed support for match sponsorship, if this standard is maintained.

Would you please pass on my personal gratitude to Tony Hankin, Ron Harris and Fred Callaghan who demonstrated to my guests that above all else they care and are determined to make Brentford F.C. a successful club.

*Yours sincerely,
Graham A. Rowley.*

In response to enquiries we would say there are no vacancies for Mascots left this season. We are sorry to disappoint Robert Dawson who is 7 today and hoped to be Mascot. Nevertheless, happy Birthday Robert.

This evening we extend a warm welcome to Swindon Town F.C. It was at the City ground in October that we turned on one of our best performances of the season, winning by 3-0, and we will therefore be particularly anxious to complete the double today. The match will of course have a special significance for Chris Kamara who spent much of his earlier years at Swindon.

Swindon's fortunes have changed dramatically since the day last October when they won 4-1 at Bristol Rovers to take over as leaders of the Third Division.

A crashing 5-0 defeat at Walsall three days later signalled the end of their brief stay in top spot, since when a meagre two wins in 17 games has seen them plummet down to their present position as one of the clubs involved in the scramble to avoid the relegation.

It has been an unhappy season all round, with even the two Cup competitions, in which they made a name for themselves a couple of years back, failing to lift the gloom at present surrounding the County Ground.

They fell at the first hurdle on a 5-2 aggregate to Wrexham in the League Cup, and after making hard work of beating Taunton and Sutton, the latter in front of the County Ground's lowest ever attendance, 2,890, Second Division front runners Luton put them out of the FA Cup.

Swindon's average attendance fell to 6,702 last season, and despite holding up well in the early months of the campaign, crowds have dropped in line with their slide down the table to the present figure of 5,600.

Swindon had a 100% record against us in the six games between the two clubs between December 1977 and the start of last season. However, since then we have more than held our own; Last season's two games ended all square, 1-1 (Kruse) at Griffin Park and 0-0 at the County Ground on the last day of the season, a point which rescued Swindon from the jaws of relegation when it was still mathematically possible for them to go down. Brentford's visit last October resulted in a comprehensive 3-0 win through goals by Bowen, Johnson and Chris Kamara, celebrating his return to the ground where he enjoyed so much success as a Swindon player.

Swindon manager John Trollope has been at the County Ground for well over 20 years, the majority of which were spent on the playing staff. After making his debut in August 1960 he went on to make an all-time record 770 League appearances, nudging aside the previous one club record held by Portsmouth's Jimmy Dickinson in October 1980.

John, who gained a League Cup winners medal against Arsenal in 1969, formed one half of the youngest full back partnership in the game's history when as a 17-year-old he teamed up with Terry Wollen, also 17, when he first broke into Swindon's first team in 1960, and also holds the club's consecutive appearance record with an unbroken League and Cup run stretching to 368 games without a miss between April 1961 and August 1968. John, a member of Swindon's Third Division promotion sides of 1963 and 1969, was awarded the MBE in 1978. His squad underwent a major overhaul last summer with seven newcomers being taken on the payroll.

EXPERIENCED

The most experienced are much travelled striker KEN BEAMISH, scorer of 158 league goals in a career spanning Tranmere (twice), Brighton, Blackburn, Port Vale and Bury, who was appointed player-coach, ostensibly to coach the reserves, but was drafted into the First Team for the recent games against Reading and Burnley, and former Birmingham and Bristol Rovers midfielder GARY EMMANUEL; The remainder are relatively inexperienced: Goalkeeper MARK STEVENS from Bristol Rovers; defenders KEVIN BADDELEY (Bristol City) and MIKE GRAHAM (Bolton); and forwards CRAIG MOORES (Bolton) and HOWARD PRITCHARD (Bristol City). Then soon after the start of the season former Tranmere and Djurgården (Sweden) full back GARY WILLIAMS cost £40,000 from Blackpool, in what could transpire to be Swindon's last big money buy for some time. Like with nearly every other League club, the cash crisis affecting the game has cut deep, and they recently launched a supporters Co-operative which aims to raise £60,000 with 12,000 fans donating £5 apiece towards the purchase of new players.

In a disappointing season the only ever presents have been long serving goalkeeper JIM ALLAN, signed from Scottish side Brora Rangers in 1970 and last season's player of the year, central defender RUSSELL LEWIS.

Leading scorer is ROY CARTER, a member of Hereford's Third Division Championship side of 1976. A genuine utility player Roy has nine goals to his credit at the time of writing.

Swindon's most expensive signing DAVID PEACH, a £150,000 buy from Southampton in March 1980, recently had his contract cancelled after little more than 50 appearances for the club, while two other big money signings are striker ANDY ROWLAND, whose goals have gone a long way to repay the £80,000 he cost from Bury in September 1978, and ROY GREENWOOD, a £60,000 capture from Derby in February 1979.

Graduates from the club's Youth Scheme are defender KEN STROUD, who signed professional forms in 1970 and is now the club's longest serving player; defender CHARLIE HENRY; midfielder BRIAN HUGHES and forwards STEVE ABBLEY and PAUL RIDEOUT, scorer of a hat-trick for England Schoolboys against Scotland in May 1980.

BRENTFORD SOCCAPROGOLOGY

PART 1: BRENTFORD COLLECTORS

It is doubtful if you will have heard the term 'Soccaprogology', since the word does not exist and cannot be found in any dictionary, however the derivation of this hybrid word produces a suitable title for this series of articles; viz. 'Socca' — Soccer, 'proga' — Programme, 'ology' — specialising, hence 'Collecting football programmes'!

Collecting football programmes is by no means a new hobby, as evidenced by the many collections dating back to the 1920's or even before, however in the last few years it has really taken off as can be seen by the Programme shops that are now present at all League grounds (additionally the many non-League clubs); the number of full and part-time dealers (now with their own Association), the number of programme fairs (on average one per week) and even publications on the subject as well as a monthly magazine.

The supporter of a specific team will of course look to his own club for his own specialised collecting (no serious collector retains every programme that appears, remember that over two thousand are produced per season in the football league alone!) However it would appear that the number of Brentford programme collectors is out of proportion to the Bees' status, and once again the charisma that surround the club would seem to have spread to the programme world. It could be argued that since 1946, Brentford have played against every league club (except Hereford United and Wigan Athletic) and most non re-elected clubs in league games thereby offering the greatest variety of opposition, although I personally feel that the interest goes back to pre-war days when their meteoric rise to fame in the '30's earned them a respect that is still appreciated today.

So what 'Brentford' programmes are collected? This can vary considerably, whilst the young collector will content themselves with home programmes from the 70's to date, my own collection is nearly complete (home and away) back to 1950, however even the latter is almost insignificant when compared to a few collectors who are now filling in the odd 'gap' during the 1930's! So who has the oldest Brentford programme and who has the most complete collection? The former question can at least be partially answered by determining at least the date of the first Brentford programme; 1902 was probably the year, this information coming from a programme itself (Brentford v Exeter 1975-76).

This leads us into examining the reason why do fans collect programmes. All manner of collecting appears to have reached a peak in Britain, when even the most humble old tin or packet can only be discarded after careful inspection in case it should prove to be a 'collectors item'. Postage stamps have been collected for well over a century, and any philatelist will confirm the excitement and satisfaction that is felt when a specific set is completed; however football programmes go one giant step further surely, since the whole history of the club can be evolved (especially Brentford since the match programme has always been factual) and memories of past matches or players of yesteryear can be recalled or visualised. Let it also be remembered that whilst football programmes do not fetch the vast sum of money that a rare postage stamp will realise, interest in the hobby is such that certain pre-war programmes can change hands for one or two hundred pounds, or more. Whilst any Brentford programme is unlikely to fetch such a large sum, a full season of programmes (home and away) will cost up to two hundred pounds back to the war years and considerably more (if obtainable) before that. Therefore any collection can now be considered a positive investment, and yes it is even possible to insure your collection.

This first article has served as a broad introduction to 'Soccaprogology' and future articles will deal with particular individual programmes, seasons and aspects of collecting, connected specifically with Brentford.

TEAM MANAGER'S VIEW

Once again, the printer's deadline prevents me from commenting on our immediately previous results. I thought this would be a useful opportunity, having already covered our home preparations, to talk about the events in respect of our away games.

The majority of our away travel is covered by coach, leaving from Griffin Park at whatever hour is necessitated by the journey involved. For the northern trips, generally speaking, we stop near Toddington, where we usually pick up our vice-Chairman, Mr. Radley-Smith, Jim McNichol, Barry Tucker, Alan Whitehead, and Dave McKellar, who also live in that area. In addition to the vice-Chairman and the playing staff, the Chairman, Mr. Lange, and the life vice-President Frank Edwards, usually travel in the team coach.

The coach itself is arranged with normal seating to the front, complete with a television/video which the players enjoy as a means of relaxing on the journey. The rear of the coach is taken up with seating and tables, and quite often there is a small card school involving Barry Tucker, Dave McKellar, and Jim McNichol, with one of the other players making up the four. Invariably an apprentice travels with the team and it is his job to help Eddie Lyons with the kit, and also to brew up the tea or coffee for those travelling on the coach.

Most journeys involve a short stop at the half-way stage, at which time the players have a light meal, which usually consists of cornflakes, poached eggs or boiled chicken and toast and honey. Journeys are timed so that we arrive at the away ground approximately one hour before kick-off, to give plenty of time for the pre-match presentation.

We usually leave the away ground about 3/4 hour after the completion of the game, and on the way back the players generally enjoy a pre-packed meal. The mood on the coach is generally measured by the result. Because of financial constraints it is very rare for us to actually stay away the night before the game, but the distance of the travel for the games at Plymouth and Carlisle does involve an overnight stop. The journey to Carlisle is our longest, and for the recent game there we travelled on the Friday afternoon and stayed at a hotel on the outskirts of Preston, therefore giving us the opportunity of breaking up the following morning with a further two hour journey to Carlisle. During our recent visit to Carlisle, to avoid the players becoming lethargic after the long coach journey, I decided to have a short training session on the Saturday morning on a pitch adjoining the hotel. In order to make this a light-hearted affair and to get everybody in good spirits the Chairman proposed a challenge match. He and I picked out sides on the night before. The sides may give a clue to our tactical thinking, the Chairman's side being himself, Kamara, Hurlock, Sweetzer, Tucker, McNichol and Roberts. My side, including myself, was Bowles, Bowen, Whitehead, Salman, Rowe and Eddie Lyons. A ten minute each way game ensued after a very light training session. This was ably refereed by our Vice-Chairman, Mr. Radley-Smith, despite the fact that there was no pea in the whistle, and honours were shared 7-7. All we need to do now is to repeat that kind of goal scoring at Griffin Park!

Our opposition tonight is Swindon Town, whom we beat earlier in the season 3-0 on our visit to their ground. I am sure Chris Kamara will hope to repeat his goal scoring act on that night against his old club, and I am sure everybody will be going all out to complete the double.

PLAYER PROFILE

TERRY ROWE

Our young full-back, Terry Rowe, who is still an apprentice, has created quite an impression in his early games for the Club. He is not 18 until June 8th, but is delighted that he has broken into the League side so early, and feels that he justifies his decision in moving across from Fulham to Brentford in the 1980 close season.

Terry followed John Griffin when he left Craven Cottage to follow Fred Callaghan to Griffin Park, and was surprised that he got a run almost immediately in a pre-season friendly with Chelsea. Terry admits that he felt very nervous on that occasion, but felt that it did him good, and although he spent most of his first season either with the junior side or in the reserves, he benefited from the close season tour of Yugoslavia and made another first team appearance against Dubrovnik.

Terry comes from a family with a strong sporting background. Although born in this country, his family come from Barbados. His father was a cricketer of considerable repute, being chosen for Barbados, and had he not come to England could well have got into the West Indies side.

Terry is useful with the bat and it was a thin decision as to whether he should take up soccer or cricket. In fact he trained at Lords under Roland Butcher and could have got a South of England trial, but he preferred instead to play for the London Schools in the Junior World Cup in Canada.

Terry also captured the eye of the England selectors, being called up for training with the Youth Squad. He now lives almost outside Queens Park Rangers' ground, but is delighted that it is at Brentford he has made his early strides in League football. A slight disappointment to him is that Ricky Marshall, a fellow apprentice and good friend, has left the Club and is now playing for Wimbledon. Their paths crossed recently in the Mid-Week League and he hopes that they will meet up again in the Third Division.

SPEAKING PERSONALLY

4, Bedford Road,
Bedfont,
Middx.

If anything winds me up it's the words, 'football hooligans'. I've heard of some terrible excuses for falling gates and where the responsibility lies, by people in the game whose very life this scourge is associated with. Some people even lay blame on the clubs for the damage and rampage caused by the thugs. Yet the old lady is not guilty when mugged nor is the shopkeeper to blame when robbed.

It is obviously clear that hooligans who rob, mug, rape and those who attend football matches have all one thing in common. They are all members of society and it is they who must be held responsible for their irresponsibility. All of us have to live in a society, there are rules and laws which we must abide by. If we choose to break the rules we must pay the consequences.

As a parent I must be responsible to and for my family. My two sons who support the Bees are my responsibility, not Brentford Football Club's. The two lads have also got to accept that they have also got to be responsible for their actions.

Football is a game played by 22 players, one referee and 2 linesmen. It lasts for ninety minutes. During that time, it is hoped, that the spectators who are watching are kept enthralled by the skills of all those involved in the game.

If this is not so, it is then very frustrating and maybe boring. Nevertheless, it does not give one the authority to disembowel anyone in sight, nor should it be the blame of anyone other than the savage who might attempt such violence.

Let's be honest, most of the hooligans are youngsters, some of whom do not even understand the game. To all parents whose youngsters visit football grounds, I wonder did you know what your lad did last Saturday? Everyone I have asked so far believe that their kids behaved well and think that these sort of kids must have parents who don't care.

I don't believe parents don't care. I don't think they think their kids are hooligans. One thing is for sure, they go to football, they cause trouble and they have parents, the clubs haven't adopted them and I don't think they want to.

SUPPORTERS NEWS

This evening we have a visit from our local rivals Swindon Town, who can be expected to bring quite a few supporters here this evening and one wishes them a safe journey home after the match. After the reversal at Lincoln, we went to Southend and returned with a draw. One hopes that the lads obtained maximum points against Chesterfield on Saturday and hopefully we can add to them this evening. One can expect a hard game so let's hear plenty of vocal support, taking the opportunity to welcome back to Griffin Park, he did play for the Reserves at one time, David Kemp and hope he will have a successful stay.

The Association run a Bingo session every Wednesday evening, it is an enjoyable evening, why not come along and see what we have to offer. Membership of the Association remains at Adults £1, Juniors/O.A.P's 50p and Life-Membership £20. Forms can be obtained from the Club Shop, situated in the Braemar Road forecourt. This season's handbook has been reduced in price from 35p to 25p, buy now, while stocks last.

The date for the trial with regards to youngsters wishing to play for a team, between the ages of ten and ten and a half, will be held on Sunday 28th March, commencing at 2.15 p.m. in Boston Manor Park. Please write to me at the address below and/or see me in the Club Shop if you know of any youngsters who would like to take part in this trial, especially if they live locally. Our U/12 team played a friendly the other Sunday against an U/11 T.V. Colts XI and took the opportunity to blood a few youngsters into the team, the score being 9-4 in our favour. We were represented by L. Richardson, S. Boughtflower, S. Cutting, T. Johns, M. Bluck, G. Hughes, P. Amos, G. DiVita, S. Tsang, K. Sargent, D. Sargent, T. Hollyoak, J. Goodrich and his brother Darren. The scorers being G. DiVita 4, P. Amos 2, S. Tsang 2 and T. Hollyoak. We have now finished our league programme and hope to give you the results of our last two matches against Hampton and Twickenham Rangers in the next programme.

I am pleased to inform our supporters that Olympic Insurance Agency offer a policy with regard to private car travel to away games etc. If you are interested please write to Doddington Estate, 307 Battersea Park Road, London, SW11 4LU; otherwise I will have details with me if you see me in the Club Shop, normal place.

Last, but not least, John Lonnen is organising some tickets for the London Five-a-side competition to be held in March. Anyone interested should enquire at the Club Shop. Otherwise all matters regarding the Association should be addressed to me.

Quotations available upon request

Football is going through a very sticky patch at the moment. The press and T.V. are full of tales and doom and gloom so rather than jump on the band wagon I thought it would be an idea to devote this week's Gas to the lighter side of the game and some of the funnier things that have cropped up in recent times.

A few weeks back the Brighton Evening Argus carried an advert which at first glance had nothing whatsoever to do with football. It read: "For Sale. Eleven clockwork clowns in need of some repair, but all well oiled. Brighton 739535."

Well that number belongs to Brighton & Hove Albion football club and, like Queen Victoria, they were not amused when people started ringing in.

The advert was placed just days after Albion's shock FA Cup exit to Oxford United, presumably by a disappointed fan.

What would we do without Irish funnies?

One doing the rounds at the moment concerns the Irish club who sacked their manager during the recent freeze because the Pools Panel marked them down for three straight defeats; and from the same stable comes the story of the Irish football superstar who had to undergo brain surgery and after a successful operation called a press conference at which he told the media: "I got a sportswriter's brain so I could be sure I had one that hadn't been used."

Talking about the press reminds me of the quote attributed to Fred Callaghan after last season's F.A. Cup tie against Addlestone & Weybridge when they battled back from 2-0 down to force a replay. The Sun reporter covering the game wrote: "Brentford boss Fred Callaghan fumed, 'The team blew it. Now the ball is in their court'". That followed on from the Daily Telegraph howler the morning after the draw was made when they

GRAHAM'S GAS

BY

reported, "Addlestone, the Athenian League club, will, if they beat Weybridge, be at home to Brentford."

Bournemouth manager Dave Webb's attempt to emulate club Director Jim Davidson's line in patter when he offered a car in exchange for Tony Funnell, provoked not a titter from Fred Callaghan or anyone else at Brentford for that matter. Perhaps a ship would have been more apt!

(Funnell, ship, get it? Oh, well, please yourself!)

Maggie Thatcher may have her faults, but even the Iron Maiden is unlikely to utter the kind of threat given to the Liberian National side a couple of years back.

Before an important Africa Cup game against Gambia, Head of State, Master-Sergeant Samuel Doe, summoned the players to his state mansion for a 'friendly' get together, and told them he believed a lack of incentives had been a main cause of their run of defeats.

SACRIFICE NEEDED

While the players no doubt started to dream of free cars and a taste of the good life, Doe brought them down to Earth by saying: "What we want is a new breed of footballer who is willing and ready at all times to sacrifice his life for his country". Doe, his shocked audience quaking in their boots, then delivered the punchline, "Therefore, if you lose to Gambia in Monrovia I will have you all shot".

A bemused Sekou Gomez, the team's captain, asked Master Sergeant Doe if the Government would take out Life insurance for the players, to which he replied, "Your lives are in your own hands. That is the best insurance there is."

Despite this mother and father of a gee-up, Liberia were held to a goalless draw, although I doubt very much if Doe would have carried out his threat.

Those of you who follow the World game may have noticed that Ferenc Puskas, master craftsman in the great Hungarian side of the middle 1950's and later of Real Madrid fame, now has a bulging midriff Stan Ogden would be proud of. A recent caption to one very unflattering photograph of the 'Galloping Magyr' taken at a Charity match, dubbed him 'Jelly-meat Puskas'. You know, the one eight out of ten cats prefer.

A few weeks back I went to see one of my sons do his Danis Salman impression at the heart of his school team's defence. Midway through the second half his side were 11-1 up and running riot against demoralised opposition.

In an attempt to increase the scoreline still further they were almost queueing up to take shots, and thoroughly enjoying themselves in the process.

This failed to impress the school coach who ranted at them from the touchline, "forget about scoring goals and start playing football".

Another disciple for the clear the terraces movement!

Jim Rosenthal, too, could have chosen his words more carefully when commenting on the Feyenoord-F.C. Zwolle Dutch League game shown on "The Big Match", which ended 5-5. He said, "Not the sort of game many coaches would get enthusiastic about."

I dare say us terrace "wallahs" could suffer a 5-5 draw now and then!
